

Predict Early Peace In Rail Strike As Two Conferences Are Held

Jewell Will Support Suggestions Made by President for Arbitration

RAIL HEADS MEET IN N. Y.
Guyler Will Use His Influence at Conference of Railroad Heads

By Associated Press
Washington—President Harding was said Monday by close personal friends and advisers to have received assurances from Chairman Guyler of the Association of Railway Executives, Vice President Atterbury of the Pennsylvania railroad and B. M. Jewell head of the striking shopmen's organizations that they would support his proposals for immediate ending of the strike.

These assurances were understood to be the basis of the president's hope for successful termination of his arbitration efforts.

They have been the subject of discussion it was reported between the president and his immediate advisers including some members of the senate.

The president has been told, it was said, that Mr. Jewell would, in the union conference to be held Tuesday at Chicago, give his endorsement to the settlement proposal.

COUNT ON GUYLER
Mr. Guyler and Mr. Atterbury, it was said, did not go so far as the union head, but were said to have advised the president that they would at least vote for its acceptance. It was said that Mr. Jewell told the president that he would agree to present the executive's proposals to the railway heads' conference Tuesday at New York, and in doing so express the personal belief that they ought to be adopted. The influence of Mr. Guyler and Mr. Atterbury is counted upon by the administration to have a large influence at the railway executives' meeting.

Administration leaders said they expected spirited debate in Tuesday's session of the executives, but that the final result would be reluctant acceptance of the president's proposals. It might be, according to administration advisers that the executives would go on record against accepting the proposals and yielding to the union demands, but place themselves in position of yielding under protest to a virtual "order" from the president. At the same time it was thought probable that the executives would take action declaring that the president and not they themselves were responsible for waiving the seniority question.

WELL KNOWN AUTHOR AND REFORMER DIES

Rev. William Burgess Was Famous For His Literary Works on Religion

By Associated Press
Chicago—Rev. William Burgess, author, publicist and social reformer died Sunday morning at his home in Des Plaines in his eightieth year. A family of five sons and three daughters survive.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at Des Plaines, at 2:30 P. M., with private burial service.

Rev. Burgess was best known to Chicago as the active genius of the Illinois Vigilance association, of which he was executive secretary. However, it is probable that his name will live much longer in his books, three of which have attracted wide attention. Among them is "The Bible in Shakespeare," a place in almost every modern religious library. It is a scholarly analysis of the influence of the Bible upon Shakespeare and of his drafts upon it for material and inspiration. It was published in 1902 and occasioned wide discussion.

GREEKS PROCLAIM SELF RULE IN ASIA MINOR

By Associated Press
Smyrna—A proclamation announcing the establishment of a regime of self government for the regions in Asia Minor occupied by the Greeks was issued Monday by M. Stergiadis, Greek high commissioner. The proclamation states that the new regime is in conformity with the principles recognized by the entente allies during the world war and decrees a Greek protectorate over the specified territories.

RETURNS TO HER HUSBAND AND THEN SHOTS HIM

By Associated Press
Chicago—Mrs. Gladys Kirtland after being separated from her husband, Percy Kirtland, for a week, agreed to his plans for a reconciliation Monday and returned to his home. Fifteen minutes later she shot him to death. She told the police he had begun beating her as soon as she entered the house. Mrs. Kirtland is 26 years old and her husband was 27.

Aged Woman Is Burned To Death Before Praying

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—A helpless cripple, Mrs. Ellen Toner, 72, was burned fatally Sunday when her night gown caught fire from the flying head of a match, before her tortured screams aroused others in the rooming house where she lived. She was a devout Catholic. Intending to pray before going to sleep again, she scratched a match to light a prayer candle. The head of the match flew off and flared up setting fire to her night gown.

No one was awakened by the burning woman's cries for some minutes. When persons did arrive, she had fainted from pain. Mrs. Toner died after being removed to a hospital.

AMERICAN RELIEF WORK TO CONTINUE IN SOVIET RUSSIA

Chief Need Among Russians Now Is Medical Attention to Check Disease

By Associated Press
Washington—American relief work in Soviet Russia will continue for three or four months at least, Secretary Hoover announced Monday upon his return from New York where he met Sunday with Col. William N. Haskell, head of the American relief association forces in Russia.

The major problem now in Soviet Russia since the famine has been broken, Mr. Hoover said, is a medical one requiring the continuance of a program of American sanitation for the protection of the rest of the world from contagion.

The lesser problem confronting American relief work, Mr. Hoover declared, the question of displaced children, there being about 1,000,000 children who have been separated from their families as a result of the famine and who now are under the care of the American Relief administration.

JURY IN OBENCHAIN CASE IS STILL DEADLOCKED

By Associated Press
Los Angeles—Another attempt to decide upon the guilt or innocence of Madalynne Obenchain, accused of the murder of her sweetheart, J. Belton Kennedy, a broker, Aug. 5, 1921 was to be made Monday by the jury which heard her second trial.

When the jury, composed of five men and seven women, was locked up at 10:30 o'clock Sunday night, after 54 hours deliberation, the latest rumor was that deadlocked at 10 to 2 for acquittal, it was considering a compromise verdict of manslaughter.

STATE HEALTH NURSES TO MEET IN MADISON

The combined sessions will occupy the entire week, beginning August 14.

EXPORTS OF FOODSTUFFS SHOW LARGE DECREASE

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Foodstuffs exports during the past fiscal year fell off in value by more than $500,000 as compared with the fiscal year 1921 according to foreign trade reports issued Monday by the commerce department.

The total value of foodstuffs exported during 1922 amounted to $780,000,000 as against $1,335,000,000 in 1921, the bulk of this decrease, due largely to the increased price, the department explained, falling on wheat, wheat flour and cotton seed oil, as there was a very marked increase in the exports of coarse grains such as barley, corn and oats.

LABOR BOARD MUST SETTLE RAIL STRIKE

Compromise Outlined by Harding Leaves Principal Points to Board

REHEARING ON WAGE CUT

Cooperation Between Roads and Employees Is Counted Good Precedent

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1922, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—All the principal points in dispute in the rail strike are left to the United States Railroad board to adjudicate.

This is the essence of the compromise settlement drafted by President Harding and informally approved by the spokesmen of the contending parties.

The president has won his point—the labor board's supremacy must be recognized by both railroads and workmen. The fact that both sides have seen fit in the past to disapprove the decisions of the board is regarded as the best proof of its impartiality.

Mr. Harding feels that a long step toward permanent peace in the railroad industry will have been accomplished by the cooperation of the railroads and shopmen in the controversy which is just being brought to an end. The examples is bound to be a precedent for future disputes and that's why Mr. Harding has labored to make the solution come through the labor board instead of through national or regional agreements between roads and their men. The transportation act provides for the creation of regional adjustment boards over whose decisions the United States Labor board has the right of revision. But the main point that is to be solved in the windup of the present strike will come under the labor board itself and while neither the railroads nor the employees representatives have been inclined to place much reliance on the efficacy of the labor board heretofore they will from now on have a different attitude toward it.

The president, for instance, is giving his attention to those aspects of the labor board which have been disregarded by the railroad executives. It will take time to get the same measure of obedience from both sides but the president has saved the life of the labor board at a moment when it seemed to become the cat's paw of both sides.

CANDIDATES ARE TOO LATE TO HAVE NAMES ON BALLOTS

County Clerk of Kenosha County Will Be Liable If Names Are Entered

By Associated Press
Madison—The county clerk of Kenosha county will be held criminally liable if he places the names of candidates for county offices and the assembly from two districts on the official ballot who filed nomination papers containing less than the legal requirement of signatures, according to an opinion handed down Monday to Frank Symmonds, district attorney by assistant Attorney General F. C. Bump.

The opinion held that the county clerk did wrong in permitting the filing of papers after the time had expired, and that he cannot legally place the names of such candidates on the official ballots. Should the names be placed on the official ballot and the candidates elected, their election will be in valid and the county clerk held criminally liable.

The county clerk can discard nomination papers containing more than the maximum signatures and file the balance, the opinion reads.

The decision was the result of the county clerk of Kenosha county permitting several candidates to file their nomination papers on July 25 after filing time had expired. The candidates had previously filed papers containing signatures less than three percent of legal requirements.

GIRL'S BODY FOUND IN CREEK NEAR OSHKOSH

By Associated Press
Oshkosh—The body of Miss Marie Hepp, aged 19, residing at 373 Sawyer avenue was found Sunday morning in Sawyer Creek near her home, by boys who went to get a boat moored near the Sawyer avenue bridge. The body was attired only in a slip-on apron.

An autopsy was called Monday morning by two local physicians and their report to District Attorney D. K. Allen, that the cause of death was drowning. No marks of violence were found on the body. The theory of suicide is advanced but relatives are at a loss to determine the cause. The girl attended a dance at Tyrivier's hall in West Algoma Saturday night and came home shortly after midnight. She evidently undressed, put on the apron and then is supposed to have gone to the creek.

WARN AGAINST SOUTH AMERICA COLONIZATION

Hair Dressers' Meeting Doooms Bobbed Tresses

St. Louis—A Grecian maiden, with classically bound hair, long draping and flowing robes and sandal-like footwear—such will be the stylish girl who will replace the present "flapper" in the opinion of some of the delegates who are attending the three-day convention of the National Hair Dressers' association, opened here Monday.

The hair dress will naturally have to fit the flowing sleeves of the straight-line frocks, which have been designed by dame fashion for the present time, declared one of the delegates and it was an edict that bobbed hair will eventually have to go.

COAL DEALERS OF STATE WILL HOLD MEETING

Price Fixing and Priority Rights Will Be Considered at Conference

By Associated Press
Madison—A call for a conference here Wednesday of leading wholesale coal dealers in Wisconsin was issued by the fuel administration appointed by the governor at the request of Secretary Hoover.

The decision to call the wholesale coal dealers in conference was made at a meeting of the administration here Monday morning.

Gathering of data as to the amount of coal held by the wholesalers and the distribution method is expected to be discussed at the meeting here.

Final action within a week in fixing of state coal prices and determining priority rights was promised by the administration at preliminary meeting Monday morning.

TAKE COAL CENSUS

The committee consisting of J. B. Borden, representing the state board of public affairs, L. E. Gettle, representing the railroad commission, Edward Nordman representing the marketing department, John J. Mack, state chief engineer, and several other officers, were present at the conference which lasted until noon.

The fuel administration will meet again Monday afternoon to discuss the situation. The gathering of data as to the amount of coal now in the state, the amount normally used and where the chief points of consumption are located, constituted the activities of the fuel administration commission.

Throughout the state retail and wholesale dealers, public utilities companies creameries and factories were asked by the commission for thorough outlines of local fuel situations, it was said.

TO CONTROL PRICE

The state commission will control price fixing and priority rights within the state in all cases except of the railroads in which the federal fuel administration will confine itself to fixing the prices of coal at the mine and to determining priority rights in interstate commerce, a member of the commission said.

Miss Irma Hochstein, formerly a secretary with the wartime federal fuel administration volunteered Monday to turn over to the state commission valuable records and data concerning methods of management of the old board. Her services have been accepted by the board and the entire list of large consumers of coal which the government obtained during the war will form the basis of this list which is being tabulated at the capital building now.

MANY INJURED AS GAS TANK EXPLODES

Chicago—A tank 60 feet wide and 100 feet high, containing thousands of cubic feet of gas blew up Monday at Twenty-fifth and Throop streets, a section inhabited mostly by laborers, injured more than a score of persons set fire to a dozen houses and caused many persons within an area of several blocks to be overcome by the fumes. The flames were brought under control by the fire department.

The cause of the explosion is unknown. The top of the tank blew off and witnesses said that simultaneous upward flames shot from the tank. A dock at the Chicago river caught fire and for some time several large lumber yards were threatened.

Within 30 minutes after the explosion five injured persons had been taken to hospitals and dozens of others were said to be receiving attention in private homes. The tank was owned by the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company which announced that it contained 4,200,000 cubic feet of gas.

Many of those injured were women and children, the latter frequently playing around the streets in this neighborhood.

CORPORATION REVENUE FALLS DUE ON MONDAY

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—Revenue from Wisconsin corporations and industries estimated at $1,850,000 is due the internal revenue department Monday. The revenue is derived from the capital stock and occupation taxes, both of which are due by midnight. Revenue officials estimated that $1,500,000 will be paid by corporations subject to a levy on their capital stock and that $350,000 will be forthcoming from industries within the scope of occupational tax. Penalty for nonpayment is 25 percent of the tax, but few violations are expected by officials.

CANDIDATES ARE ACTIVE IN TOURS OF ENTIRE STATE

Political Battle is Reaching Its Highest Point in Wisconsin Campaign

By Associated Press
Madison—Political guns will be let loose during this week from southern Wisconsin through the central part of the state to the most northern counties, itineraries mapped out by candidates show.

This week opens the final month of the campaign with every candidate reaching the top of his speaking tour. New speakers are being added to the large field as the battle for office heads toward the climax. Despite the numerous addresses scheduled in the same sections all candidates are reporting large crowds who are evincing an intense interest in the issues of the opposing factions.

Dr. W. A. Ganfield, candidate for the United States senate on the independent Progressive Republican ticket starts his week at Superior and after tour in the northwest counties heads down through the north central sections later in the week. Senator Robert M. La Follette, his opponent will rest until Thursday when he reopens his campaign in the south covering the more populous districts of Wisconsin. He will continue over into the next week speaking Wednesday, August 9 at Milwaukee.

Attorney General William J. Morgan will attend to the duties of his office for the first three days of this week, after four weeks of intensive campaigning. He opens up again Wednesday night at Brownstown, Green county and spends the remainder of the week in the south and southwest counties. His opponent, Gov. J. Blaine, will carry his campaign through the entire week with out interruption addressing 25 meetings in the north.

FRENCH REJECT GERMAN REQUEST

By Associated Press
Berlin—France has rejected Germany's request for a reduction in the monthly payments on the debts contracted by German Nationals with allied citizens prior to the world war.

The French note gives the German government ten days in which to signify that full payments will be continued in accordance with the London agreement and the decision of the allied clearing house offices, otherwise certain fixed measures will be applied automatically.

A serious view of the French reply is taken here, especially as the note was despatched on the eve of the conference of allied premiers in London. Germany has asked that the clearing house payments be reduced from 2,000,000 to 500,000 pound sterling monthly.

Reports Show Slight Increase in Amount of Coal Which is Being Mined

ORDERS READY IN 48 HOURS

Federal Control Will Probably Continue Some Time After Strike Ends

By Associated Press

Washington—The government machinery for emergency distribution of coal swung into gear Monday as the central committee here, with Henry B. Spencer, federal fuel distributor, as administrative head, began active functioning under the program devised to supply coal to the industries and localities where it is most needed and to maintain fair price levels at the mines. The central control organization was rapidly being perfected, it was said with the organization of an adequate staff to handle the rush of reports and orders expected to flow through Washington.

As the distribution program went into effect, slow recovery of the geological survey for the week ending Saturday, the estimated total being 3,900,000 tons as compared with 3,700,000 tons the week previous. Production of anthracite was said to remain at "practically zero."

ASK FOR FUEL

Requests for coal from governors of states, already have begun to come into the federal fuel distribution committee, Secretary Hoover stated Monday. The states, he said, asked particularly for fuel for their public utilities.

Fuel distributor Spencer was at work Monday perfecting the organization of regional committees in the producing mine fields and it was expected that orders could be forwarded to all districts within 48 hours.

Maintenance of the federal emergency coal control organization, Mr. Hoover asserted, probably would be necessary for at least three months after the coal strike is ended. It will be necessary he explained, to provide for needs of some sections such as New England and the northwest where there are practically no stocks of coal.

Whether an appropriation will be necessary to defray the expenses of the emergency organization has not yet been determined, Mr. Hoover said, adding that the question could be decided by the time the house reassembles on August 19.

GENERAL SAWYER DIES AT AGE OF 89

By Associated Press
Washington—Brigadier General Oliver Lynman Spaulding, former assistant secretary of treasury and for many years prominent in public affairs in Michigan died Sunday at his home here aged 89 years.

General Spaulding, who served throughout the civil war, after enlistment with the Twenty Third Michigan Infantry served as assistant secretary of the treasury from 1897 to 1898 and again from 1897 to 1908 and was a member of the forty seventh congress from Michigan. He also served as secretary of state of Michigan, regent of the university of Michigan, and president of the First Pan-American customs conference in 1903. Burial will be in Arlington cemetery.

SIMON CHEESE CO. PLANT UNROOFED IN WINDSTORM

Miniature Tornado Causes Considerable Damage in Fox River Valley

A property loss involving several thousand dollars was caused by the small tornado that swept through the Fox river valley Sunday evening. The windstorm was at its worst northeast and northwest of Appleton, although it raised havoc in the vicinity of Appleton Junction.

The most noticeable damage was to be found on buildings of the N. Simon Cheese company, the Miles Meidam greenhouse and the Millard estate. The roof of the entire west end of the Simon Cheese Co. building was torn off by the storm, leaving the office without cover. William H. Zuehlke, receiver for the company, was not able to state the exact amount of damage done here. A warehouse occupied by the cheese company, but owned by the Millard estate was damaged in a similar way. It formerly was used by the old pickle factory.

The Meidam greenhouse is without a smokestack and will have to build a new garage as a result of the destruction at this plant. The 45 foot brick chimney was blown over and fell upon the garage, caving in the roof. Window panes also were blown in by the wind.

Trees were blown down in the Third and Fifth wards the branches blocking up the streets in some places. On Pierce-ave. near Second-st. a large tree lay stretched across the street and police officers had to cut up the tree before traffic could go through. Electric wires were torn by the fall of the tree. A number of trees in the vicinity of Waverly beach leaving a number of broken trees in its train.

Motorists returning home from the vicinity of Royalton, Kashena Falls and Green Bay report that driving even on paved roads was like a ship at sea on a stormy night. A number of automobiles were capsized and in some cases the tops were blown off. It is stated.

A barn on the Lake-rd., owned by a farmer named Gear was blown over and demolished. The barn was small and old and the loss was not large.

A window in John Hoffman's residence at 752 Superior-st. was blown in during the absence of members of the family on an automobile trip and when they returned they found the room flooded with water.

A railroad truck loaded with baggage was carried over the edge of the platform of the depot at Appleton Junction by the wind before employees could get it under cover and the contents was scattered about the ground.

B. J. Zuehlke's lawn at the corner of Second and Mason-sts. was covered with branches from shade trees and considerable damage was done also to trees in Pierce park.

The wind was especially severe at Waverly and hundreds of people were driven to shelter when the storm broke. Very little damage was done, however.

The Third ward circuit of the fire alarm system was put out of commission following the heavy wind when a wire was broken off at the corner of Outagamie and Spencer-sts. The trouble was remedied quickly, however. Several fires on other alarm wires were burned out.

Tourists camping at Alicia park came to Appleton with tents but left without them and should any inquiry be made as to what became of them, the owners will say, "I don't know." The high wind took three or four tents with it, tearing them from their moorings and sending them through the air like parachutes. The tents were carried so far nobody knew where they landed. Several trees were uprooted at the park, and one of them landed within a few feet of a tent.

"MOON" RESULTS IN ARREST OF 2 MEN

Too much "moonshine," the quantity being unknown, brought August Holtz, Appleton, and George Solomon, who lives at 333 T. rd., Neenah, into municipal court Monday morning. Both cases were the result of Sunday spree. Solomon was found in a precarious condition at the Northwestern freight depot at 1:30 Sunday morning by Patrolman Matthew McGinnis, while Holtz was picked up by Patrolman Edward Ratzman at the Northwestern railroad yards Sunday afternoon. They were fined $2 plus costs of $2.20 each.

Use of abusive language is the charge that was preferred against Laa Grundemann on complaint of Gertrude Kramer. She was released on payment of $100 bail and her case was continued until next Monday.

MAYOR OF OFFICE BUILDING

MISS ANNA MARCUCCO AND "DIXIEVILLE" OVER WHICH SHE RULES

On a door on the tenth floor of the Dixie Terminal, which is an office building, arcade and street railway terminal in one, is a sign that reads:

MISS ANNA MARCUCCO
BUILDING MANAGER
And inside presides a young woman who from a large mahogany desk rules the community that inhabits the vast building. She is Miss Anna Marcucco.

She is, in fact the mayor of a private town all housed in one building—a town with a Main Street, the arcade that has in it 50 stores of all kinds.

Dixie Terminal it's named. Call it rather "Dixieville."

In Miss Marcucco's "Dixieville" there is a union traction depot where $5,000 persons go every day to take street cars for the over-the-river towns in Kentucky.

Over all is the ten-story Dixie office building, at present occupied by 1,000 workers and ultimately to be occupied by about 1,500 more.

Over this domain Miss Marcucco is boss. It is her business to see to it that every room and store in "Dixieville" is populated with none but the desirable.

She watches the windows in the stores of "Dixieville's" Main street, because under its laws every window must look like its neighbors, with no garish posters.

She makes all contracts for improvements and repairs: she runs the electric service; she bosses the janitors and the scrubwomen; and the rest of the working force; she receives the complaints and suggestions of the inhabitants; and collects the rentals.

And, in between, she has an eye on the elevators, keeping before her the daily mileage of each elevator and the number of stops each makes, in order to check them up for efficiency and economy.

The lady-boss of "Dixieville" gets to work at 9 a. m. and seldom quits before 6, and two or three nights a week she returns to her office for more work after supper.

"Yes, it's a job that keeps the mind busy," says Miss Marcucco. "And what keeps the mind busy keeps one happy. That's why I like it."

Orchestra Contest
Dancers at Waverly beach on Tuesday and Thursday will determine whether Art Payne's Waverly orchestra or G. H. Horst's orchestra of Chilton is the supreme dance orchestra of Wisconsin. The orchestra which receives the greatest number of votes on the two nights will receive $150, the sum put up as a challenge by the Waverly management. The management challenged any other orchestra in Wisconsin to play for popularity with the dancers. G. H. Horst accepted the challenge and the dance music match will be staged Tuesday and Thursday.

The Misses Angela Lamers and Della Schmit are spending their vacations at Idle Ease cottage at Chautauque, Waupun. Miss Lamers will be gone a week and Miss Schmit two weeks.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon for Herbert Hoerning, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoerning, 853 Garfield-st., who died Thursday from pneumonia after an illness of about 24 hours.

The child was 2 1/2 years of age and is survived by his parents, three sisters and four brothers.

TWO SLIGHTLY HURT AS CAR HITS HIGH CULVERT

G. W. Jones and O. C. Smith are slightly disfigured but not seriously injured as a result of hitting a raised culvert just as they were entering Dundas on Saturday on their way to Manitowoc to play golf. They were riding with C. C. Hockley when the car hit the culvert throwing the two passengers in the front seat against the bar on the windshield. They were cut about the face, but continued to Manitowoc and played golf during the afternoon. The car was only slightly damaged.

PLANT MORE BASS IN LAKE NEAR HERE

Several cans of bass rescued from the Mississippi river were "planted" in Little Lake Buttes des Morts on Saturday by local sportsmen. This is the second "planting" of bass in the lake this season and sportsmen believe there will be excellent bass fishing in those waters in a year or two.

Sportsmen there are doing much to preserve fishing in waters near Appleton. Fishing has been better the last few years than for a long time and it is expected to improve under the careful watching of the local men.

STANSBURY LEADS IN TRAP SHOOTING

Karl Stansbury, with a record of 95 hits out of 100 shots, won the shoot conducted by Appleton Angling and Shooting club at the shooting range Sunday afternoon. R. W. Getchow scored a long run of 29 hits, hitting 25 straight in the second of the four events.

Following are the number of hits in 100 shots:

Karl Stansbury, 95; C. W. Stribley, 52; H. C. Getchow, 47; R. W. Getchow, 33; Emma Stribley, 31; W. Commentz, 70; R. C. Breitung hit 45 targets in 75 shots and G. L. Chamberlain broke 18 in 25 shots.

CASTLE OF DOUGLASSES IS OFFERED FOR SALE

London—Tantallon Castle in North Berwick, for centuries the stronghold of the Douglasses, is to be sold this summer.

In Sir Walter Scott's "Marmion" the battlements of the Tantallon are the meeting place of Clare and her lover.

Around its walls many fierce battles have been fought. At one time the castle was besieged by King James V, who failed to make a breach in its 12 feet walls and starved out the garrison. Later it was the scene of on-slughters by Cromwell and the Covenanters.

Taxi Drivers Could Tell A Lot Of Wild Tales If They Started To Talk

Lots of Married Men, and Single Ones Too, Would Leave Town If Drivers For-got Pledge of Secrecy.

"Meet me at the Citizen's bank corner at once, Hurry!" came a feminine voice over the phone to a taxi office. The driver jumped into the cab, rushed to the corner and a young woman, almost a flapper, hurried out from the entrance of the bank. The car had scarcely stopped when she was in and closed the door with a bang. "Straight ahead," she cried, just as a masculine voice called loudly: "Stop that car."

That is the sort of thing which happens to taxi drivers in the movies, but not in Appleton, according to several drivers who say that the things they do not make good newspaper stories, but better gossip, and that leaving out the gossip, there is little thrilling or exciting about their "same." They admit, however, that they do get to know a lot about people of all ages and positions, and that very often their senses of humor must be worked overtime in order to keep from telling people where to "head in at."

BUSINESS IN SLUMP
The drivers say that the taxi business is not what it once was in the days when everybody was making good money and would as soon ride in a taxi as take a street car. Now people have to count each 75 cents and so they walk—or drive their own car. But back in the days when money flowed like beer before prohibition, the drivers were kept busy all night making trips to Neenah, to Kaukauna and even to Oshkosh and Green Bay. At that time it was a case of "Money is nothing to me," and the fare was paid without grumbling and a good sized tip passed along with it.

"No siree, you can't get a story from my drivers," said one owner of taxi cabs to the reporter. "A good taxi driver never talks, and what's more he sees nothing, hears nothing and knows nothing. But let me tell you, if the drivers should ever begin to talk, half the married men in Appleton would be figuring in the divorce courts or leaving town. That's pretty hard on the married men, but the drivers also know a few things about the young men in this town, too."

ALL KINDS OF JOBS

Now, you may not believe it, but the taxi driver is asked to do very nearly everything from taking a box of candy to the best or even the next best girl to calling at the dry goods stores for several boxes of hats for someone. The taxi goes ashopping and accounting and even amarrying to no nearer place than Menominee, Mich. and Waukegan, Ill. Several trips have been made to those places by taxi. One driver lately had a merry chase when he was called to a resort near here quite late one night to find a young couple who had decided that they wanted to get married at once. He drove them all over town for the necessary dispensations, papers and jewelry.

Occasionally a driver runs across a woman traveling with all her possessions and pets in bags, bundles and cages. These are really few and far between, however, for most people travel with only one small bag or suitcase. There are plenty of people who spurn the chance to have a ride and their baggage transported and trudge wearily from the railroad stations, burdened with baggage. Once in a while, a tired looking mother with six or seven children will descend from the train and marshal them to the driver who piles them three deep into his car. If the woman has her hands full, the drivers try to be helpful and they usually figure that a mother with so many children needs her money pretty badly and make the fare considerably less, they say.

DON'T WANT WILD PARTIES

That reputable tax firms do not cater to the trade from so-called wild parties was a fact that one man brought out emphatically. The reason he gave was one based largely on business efficiency and reputation rather than any moral disapproval of the parties. He said that the destruction to the car itself is liable to result from wild parties, and should anyone of the party become ill, it becomes very hard work for the driver. Few drivers like to carry people who are under the influence of liquor, some of whom become very surly and unruly in the cabs.

Monday and Friday nights are the "slowest" in the taxi business, with the weekend nights, Saturday and Sunday, the heaviest. In the fall up to Christmas is the best time for the cab business in the year, but on rainy nights or days, business flourishes. One driver said that during the last heavy rain storm, he was in his cab for four hours straight, no sooner getting back to the garage than he was sent out again.

MUST CHASE TRAINS

"Seven out of every ten of our calls are calls to make trains at the last moment," said a driver. "I make trains every day at the last moment and often chase a train from the station to the Junction, or even to Kaukauna or Neenah. Only yesterday I got a call to make that 4:04 train just as it was whistling into the station. We made it, but at the Junction."

Since Appleton has increased its number of auto owners, the calls for taxis are not so numerous. People who used to be regular customers now drive their own. Even the calls for weddings have dropped off, but occasionally the cab has to be sent out ahead of time so that it can be properly decorated for the bridal pair. Of course, more cabs are used now than in the old hack days.

"Most people talk to the driver, tell him their family history, all about where they are going and why," said one man. "We really do not pay much attention to them and in fact, I think most of the fellows would just as soon not be talked to because they have to keep their attention on the machine and the road. People, just ordinary people, whose circumstances are not unusual, come and go almost unnoticed as part of the day's work. We meet all kinds and go everywhere in a day and a night."

THE STAGE

"The Bachelor Daddy" Tomorrow
Today will be shown for the last time Bebe Daniels in that clever little picture "The Speed Girl." There are many thrills and laughs and it registers with the popular pictures of the season.

Starting Tuesday for three days the much asked for subject "The Bachelor Daddy" with your favorite Tom Meighan in the leading role will be shown.

Richard Chester, a wealthy owner of mining property in the South, is engaged to marry Ethel McVae, the haughty aristocratic daughter of a poor widow. Sally Lockwood, his private secretary, secretly loves him, but knowing him to be engaged, she makes no display of her affection.

Chester receives word that several bandits are threatening his mine and demanding a ransom, and although it is only a month before his wedding, he leaves to personally handle the critical situation. Joe Pelton, his foreman, is mothering five children, from nine to babyhood, their mother having recently died. The bandit's demands sternly refused by Chester, they make an attack and in the fight, Chester runs out in the open to rescue a child. He is wounded, but is heroically rescued by Pelton, who in turn is mortally wounded. Chester adopts the five children who have come to love him, but his fiancée objects and the children are placed in a school with the exception of the baby who is taken care of by Sally. Chester becomes seriously ill on his wedding day. The engagement is broken and Chester gathers the children together again but the baby refuses to leave Sally. Then of course he falls in love with Sally. They are married and the arrival of new twins cause the adopted twins untold jealousy.

ASK CORBETT TO GIVE C. OF C. RETAIL TALKS

Hugh G. Corbett, managing secretary of the chamber of commerce, has been requested to deliver a series of six lectures on "Retail Trade," at the annual convention of the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries, to be held in Detroit Aug. 28 to Sept. 2. The series is to cover every phase of chamber of commerce activity to promote retail trade, according to R. B. Beach, business manager of Chicago Association of Commerce, who made the request. Mr. Corbett is in Canada on his vacation, so has not acted upon the invitation.

KIMBERLY BOARD LETS SEWER AND PAVING CONTRACTS

Work Will Be Started on Two Projects as Soon as Material Can Be Obtained

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Kimberly—At the last meeting of the village board sealed bids for a sewer and concrete road construction were opened. The Yahr Construction Co. of Antioch was the lowest bidder for the sewers which are to be put in on Wilson-st. in the Klaushaus plat, and in the alley between First and Second-sts. The Snyder Construction Co. figured the lowest on the concrete road which is to be built from the bridge up Sidney-st. to Kimberly-ave. Work will begin as soon as the construction companies can get material here.

The auditing committee of the Kimberly State bank held its meeting at the bank office Monday evening of last week.

BERNICE SIMPSON WEDS RESIDENT OF AMHERST

Special to Post-Crescent

Seymour—On Thursday evening occurred the marriage of Miss Bernice Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Simpson of Osborn, to Edward Phillips of Amherst. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert O'Neill of Hortonville. Miss Gertrude Gerhauz of Kaukauna attended the bride while Robert Simpson, brother of the bride, was best man. Helen and Viola O'Neill were flower girls, and Duane Schumacker, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Schumacker of Mosling, was ringbearer.

A wedding supper was served after which the couple left for a trip to Eau Claire and Stevens Point. Upon their return they expect to make their home at Appleton. The out-of-town guests were the Rev. Mr. O'Neill and family of Hortonville, and Mr. and Mrs. Grover Schumacker and son Duane of Mosling.

CHAUTAUQUA WILL CLOSE SEASON AT KAUKAUNA MONDAY

Excellent Programs Were Presented on Saturday and Sunday

Kaukauna—Mutual Chautauqua closes its five day engagement in this city with a community program and picnic Monday afternoon and evening. A pageant by the children of the city will be given and a program also will be rendered by chautauqua artists. Mary Cameron, pianist and monologist, Martha Wylie, reader and Kater, the magician, will complete the bill for Monday afternoon and evening. A picnic will feature the community day program. Chautauqua followers will bring their picnic suppers, will enjoy a recreational period and will remain for the evening program. The biggest hit of the course was the Chicago Light Opera Co. which appeared Sunday afternoon and evening. They gave quartets, duets and musical numbers in various combinations all in keeping with the Sabbath. In the evening the company presented Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera "The Pirates of Penzance". In the afternoon Neva Boyd, director of Chicago recreational training school, addressed the audience. Miss Boyd is a specialist in children's and community work and her talk was educational.

The Lombards and Major Joseph R. Hanley formed a fine combination for entertainment and lecture Friday afternoon and evening. After a program by the Lombards, Mr. Hanley gave interesting talks, replete with philosophic humor. His lecture in the evening on "Uncle Sam, Democrat", contained a warning to the people that if this world is to be made safe for democracy, then democracy must be made fit for the world. He showed how class prejudices, race distinctions and money getting habits were building up discontent, hatred and lawlessness, as well as keeping the foreigners herded up like cattle in filthy districts where they have no opportunity of receiving the democratic spirit of Uncle Sam.

USE NEW MACHINES TO CAN 65 ACRES OF 1922 BEAN CROP

Hortonville Plant Reduces Amount of Help When Pea Canning Season Ended

Special to The Post-Crescent
Hortonville—The bean canning season has opened at the Fox Valley canning factory. The peas are practically all canned, except a quantity which has not matured. The bean canning process is slower and the company is not employing as much help as was necessary for the peas. There are about 65 acres of beans to be preserved and most of the work will be done by machinery. Bean snippers and graders have been installed for this purpose. For the past two years the bean snipping was done by hand at the homes of the workers; this year, however, it will be done with machines at the factory. This eliminates a great deal of trucking as it was always necessary to deliver the beans at the various homes and call for them again when the snipping was done. The new warehouse, 40 by 120 feet which is made of concrete blocks, is filled with the canned peas which are being shipped out daily.

ANNOUNCE HOOPS-BARTH WEDDING AT MENOMINEE

Special to Post-Crescent

Seymour—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Freund and daughter Marjorie spent last week at Berry lake.

Miss Elsie Hoops, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hoops, formerly of Seymour, was married to Lee Barth of Cicero on July 15 at Menominee, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Hill, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Herman Paulie, have returned to their home at Davenport, Iowa.

Mrs. John Huettl and son Wyman and Miss Alma Brauer spent Thursday in Appleton.

The Rev. F. Ohlroge and Mr. Schwartz left Tuesday of last week by auto for Manitowoc. From there they took a boat to Saginaw, Mich., autoling from that city to Manistee, Mich., where they visited friends.

They returned to Seymour on Friday. Frank Ormumund and family are visiting friends at the Dells and Madison.

Miss Katherine Fahcy has returned from Manitowoc where she visited Miss Loraine Schmidt, formerly of Seymour.

Mr. and Mrs. William Funk and son, Mrs. Steinborn and Mrs. Schubert autored to Seymour from Milwaukee on Thursday and visited at the home of their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gehrke. They returned to their home Tuesday.

The Rev. and Mrs. Robert O'Neill of Hortonville visited Seymour friends Thursday and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kahnt returned on Thursday from Peoria, Ill., where they have been visiting relatives.

DRIVERS UNHURT IN TWO RUNAWAYS

Milton Schroeder Almost Dragged Through Fence by Fleeing Team

Special to The Post-Crescent
Greenville—Edward Stolzman and Milton Schroeder escaped injuries in two runaways which occurred Thursday.

Mr. Stolzman was at the Potts-Wood creamery in the morning getting skim milk. His horse became frightened at steam escaping from an exhaust pipe and took flight while the owner was in the creamery. Arriving at the Stolzman farm, the horse turned in at the gate and stopped at the barn.

Mr. Schroeder was moving alfalfa Thursday afternoon, when the younger of the horses of his team became frightened at a passing automobile. The team began running, pulling the driver off his seat and dragging him. Mr. Schroeder was able to release himself from the lines just in time to prevent being pulled through a barbed wire fence. The flight was stopped when the colt fell. Both animals were cut up by their plunge through the fence and the mover was damaged badly.

A large crowd attended the ice cream social given by the Evangelical Sunday school at the home of Erwin Schroeder Wednesday evening.

Mrs. F. W. Schroeder, Laura, Esther, Milton, Willis and Norma Schroeder, Mrs. Augusta Schroeder and son Lloyd, Elsie, Wallace, Dewey and Lilly Thiel, Charles and Ralph Etzelmueller and John Stolzman attended the missionary program at the Ellington Evangelical church Sunday evening.

SWEDISH SHIPPING SHOWING INCREASE

By Associated Press

Stockholm—Less than 8 per cent of Swedish shipping is now idle, according to the latest report of the Swedish Shipowners' Association. This report shows a sharp contrast to conditions a year ago, when in June Swedish shipping depression reached bottom mark with over 44 per cent of the country's total tonnage idle and nearly 46 per cent of the men employed laid off. The report of the Shipowners' Association covers only its membership, but virtually all of the country's shipping is owned by members of the Association. The recovery of Sweden in shipping is based largely on the country's approach to normal in many of its most important industries and the rapid increase in exports.

Announcement

On the 15th day of July, last, I sold my stock of hardware and merchandise to L. E. Dankoehler and F. H. Zahrt, doing business under the name of "Fox River Hardware Company," who will continue the business in the Tesch Hardware Building, corner of Appleton and Washington Streets, Appleton, Wisconsin.

All persons indebted to William Tesch for hardware, goods and merchandise, purchased at Tesch Hardware Store, prior to July 15, 1922, are requested to pay their accounts, as soon as possible, to I. M. Speel, Tesch Hardware Building, Appleton, Wisconsin, who will collect and receipt for same.

I wish to thank the people of Appleton and Outagamie County for the liberal patronage I have received from them in my hardware business for many years past, and I trust my successors in business may continue to receive the same in the future.

Dated July 29, 1922.

LEAGUE INDORSED AT TEN MEETINGS

London—"This meeting affirms its belief that the future peace and safety of the world depends upon the adoption by all nations of the principles of the League of Nations. It recognizes that the admission of all European nations, and especially Germany, to the League is a matter of urgency."

This resolution was put and carried simultaneously from ten different platforms in Hyde Park. The occasion was the anniversary of League of Nations Day. Thousands proved their devotion to the league by cheering the resolution despite the rain which fell in torrents.

The Archbishop of York said he knew the League had prevented war between Sweden and Finland, and that it had settled a most difficult question in Upper Silesia. Also it had quenched the sparks flying about Albania, the powder magazine of Europe.

Lord Robert Cecil said the League had brought back and restored to their homes something approaching half a million prisoners of war; it had helped prevent disease and death spreading from the famine-stricken areas of Europe, and had done much to raise labor conditions throughout the world.

The Earl of Caven, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, sent this message: "My business is war and preparation for war, but that does not and never will prevent me from doing all I can to prevent war. The League of Nations has, I believe, the backing of all thoughtful people."

RETAILERS WANT TO HELP TOURISTS FIND STATE ROADS

Big Program of Activities is Adopted by C. of C.
Committee

Assisting tourists in finding the proper highway routes after they reach Appleton probably will be one of the aims of the retail division of the chamber of commerce if the recommendation of the executive committee of that group is accepted by the division as a whole.

A list of constructive activities most of them chosen from the recent community questionnaire, was drafted by the executive committee at a meeting Friday afternoon. These will be submitted to the division, which has a membership of about 25 merchants, and the program for the year made up possibly at a meeting next week. One plan is to assign three members of the division to each activity for study and enactment.

State trunk highway No. 47 now is difficult to locate for autoists arriving in the city over highway 15, because the markings are not found until the corner of Oneida and North is reached. The question of the visitor as to where to find the highway is asked many times a day, by almost every tourist arriving here. The committee desires to have the proper authorities continue those markings further into the city so the connection may be found with ease.

Here are the other tentative planks in the community betterment platform of the retailers.

Continue the warfare against worth less or fraudulent advertising.

Share in any future investigation and promotion of a community building which now is an activity among several committees.

Provide a waiting and checking room for visiting shoppers, with convenience to street car and bus lines considered.

Back a law enforcement program for use of regulation lenses on automobile lights to prevent glare thus heading the frequent complaint made now against laxness of drivers.

Urge placing of drinking fountains at downtown points.

Providing of more parking spaces for automobiles.

Cooperating with professional men in credit bureau service.

Obtaining further cooperation of fruit and food dealers in protecting their displays according to city and state sanitary regulations.

WILL GIVE CONTRACTS FOR
2 MILES OF WATERMAIN

Contracts for excavation work for water mains on eleven Appleton streets will be awarded at the meeting of the Water commission Tuesday.

The work which was recently ordered done by the common council will cover about 10,400 feet or approximately two miles of water main.

Contracts for a like amount of work have already been let by the commission making about four miles of new water mains for Appleton this year.

The streets on which excavation is to be done are Vine, Nevada, Harrison, Candee, Gilmore, South Division, Outagamie, Mason and Brewster and Linwood and Rogers avenues.

Motorcar Has Not Forced Horse Buggy Out Entirely

Now and Then Dealers Dispose of Carriage for Pleasure Driving

"Yes, sir, the carriage is a thing of the past," mused Hiram C. Greeley of the Greeley Implement company when asked whether people were still buying carriages for pleasure driving. "Oh, we sell a few and always keep some in stock, but the carriage's business days are gone forever. Only last week a man came to look for a carriage and recently I shipped one to Black Creek and a short time ago sent one down to Little Chute."

"Oh, yes, we still sell a few carriages," said B. C. Wolter, of the Wolter Implement company. "The farmers still are using horses to some extent and their carriages have to be replaced. Where a carload of carriages, which is perhaps as many as 18, used to be sold every month or so, a carload at the present time supplies the demand for practically two years."

NEED DELIVERY WAGONS
But the day of the phaeton and surrey are gone. No one buys the fancy carriages with fringed top, elaborate steps and lights which were the mark of class and prosperity in the heyday of the horse. Delivery wagons are still pretty good sellers because there is scarcely a farm in Outagamie county which does not have one or more teams besides all the motor driven machinery. Few farmers have motor trucks and the delivery wagons are used for hauling milk to the cheese factory and for many other things.

While most of the farmers own automobiles, they are pleasure cars and are not used for work on the farm. Both the men who have sold carriages expressed their regret that people have given up the driving horse, but Mr. Wolter explained it on the ground of convenience, not less regard for the animals themselves. He said that a man can drive his automobile home more quickly and with less bother than he could his horse. The horse took more time to get there then had to be fed and watered at noon, hitched and unhitched, while the car can be driven to the front door without any further attention until he wants it again. Mr. Greeley was inclined to emphasize the advantages of the horse driven vehicle because of the personality of the animal and the ability of man to come to regard the animal with much affection.

The carriage business began its steady decline about five years ago but until horses are extinct, it will continue to a small extent. With the increasing use of motor driven vehicles, carriages for pleasure have been less and less in demand. Mr. Greeley said he thought the farmers were happier in the good old days when every one of them had a driving horse and rode about the country with it, while Mr. Wolter described the greater amount of pleasure which a man could get by covering the road more rapidly and with greater comfort in an automobile.

GRAIN CROP PROMISES TO BE BEST IN YEARS

Farmers are now reaping their second harvest of silage clover and some of them have already begun hulling oats. It is also being cut. Rust is to be found on oats and barley in low places, yet the grain crop, all varieties, promises to be the best in years. It is said by a number of the farmers. Good harvest weather is all that is desired. Corn has been growing rapidly as a result of the recent warm weather some of it already is more than eight feet high. Corn is stunted only where washouts occurred during the heavy rains of last month.

New Style Collars Won't Cover Up 'Adam's Apple'

Young man, and old man, too for that matter, if you have a scrawny neck and a prominent Adam's apple, you are in for some ruined vanity for the present vogue of collars is not designed for your style of beauty. No matter how lovely your face, how nice your complexion and eyes, you are doomed to disappointment in your handsome reflection in your mirror as soon as you look down past the chin.

How you must long for the good old days of high collars, yes, even the stocks, which your grandfathers may have worn on their wedding day. Then surely the man whose neck is constant reminder of the large bite which Adam took out of that fateful fruit could deceive everyone but himself about his looks if he was careful to shave when no one was around.

LOW COLLARS IS VOGUE
But alas, the present vogue in the wearing of collars is for every low one, in fact some are designed so that they are scarcely higher than the band of your shirt. The new semi-soft collar in white is revolutionizing the wearing of collars. Many men found the soft collar more comfortable, but their wives and sweethearts found them less dressy because they would wrinkle in spite of everything. More fastidious men never adopted the soft collar because of its inability to keep its shape.

A new cotton collar which has the appearance of a starched collar but is in reality only an especially woven material used without starch, has been put on the market. Some of these collars are made in one piece on looms designed for collars alone. Others are made two pieces carefully tailored. Although these collars are comparatively expensive they are very popular.

Almost no colored collars are being worn at the present time except on the pongee and gray silk shirts. With in plain and corded effects in the soft collars still are very much in demand. The corners of the collars are no longer rounded but pointed and the line from the collar button to the point is a decided diagonal and results in a sharp angle at the point.

Winged collars are still sold to deal with full dress suits, but even these are not so popular since the young men have been giving the tuxedo coat decided preference. The "tux" of course does not require the winged collar.

The TATTOOED ARM

Isabel Ostrander

When Zorn drove up in a station jitney he gave no sign of ever having seen Miles before, but an hour later when he took his leave he slipped a note into the hand of the other.

The note was terse and to the point.

"Mrs. James Stoum removed furnishings from Gotham Storage Warehouse to Edgemoor Road, Brookside, New Jersey, last Friday. Will take care of bill of lading tomorrow."

So that chance shot had hit the mark!

Miles looked up to the house and then made his way to Scottie's room.

"Rip and I have been very busy this afternoon," began Scottie as Miles took his seat.

"So Rip has been up to something? Is that what you had in mind to tell me, Scottie?"

"It is, and I have had an exciting time. I'm a matter of twenty dollars poorer for it which I shall charge to the expense account and Rip is nursing a scratch on the shoulder."

Scottie closed his right hand and looked at it thoughtfully and his companion observed for the first time that the knuckles were reddened and a trifle swollen.

"Twas a nasty minute and a close shave for him!"

"You've been in a scrap?" Miles exclaimed.

"You were not attacked?"

"No. It was me did the attacking. You see, Owen lad, I took a look at that cottage in the woods where our friend Roger had his laboratory long ago. I caught a glimpse of a clearing just ahead with a blackened chimney sticking up, and heard the sound of a number of voices in dispute. Among them I recognized Rip's and he was plainly frightened. I hurried forward and saw Rip and a fellow who towered half a head taller than him shaking something under his nose."

"You done pass dis phony money on me yestiddy when I faded you?" he said shouting, and he added a curse that no accorded with the Sabbath. You is gwine take it back and give me de real goods or I'll cyarve your heart out."

"I could see Rip's face and it was as nearly white as it ever will be."

"Your lies don't go with me, Rip. Don't! These boys all see you gimme dis bill yestiddy and it was the crilest twenty dollar one in de game! Ain't dat right, boys?"

"The rest of them were getting excited and threatening and Rip commenced to yell and blubber when all of a sudden the big fellow went wild and then things happened quick. He crumpled the bill and threw it in Rip's face and with a yell reached into his pocket and that was where I took a hand in the game. I reached that big buck just as his knife streaked down across Rip's shoulder and caught him on the point of the jaw that put him out for the count."

Scottie glanced down once more affectionately at his clenched fist.

"Rip was loud in his gratitude but out of the tail of my eye I saw him hunt for that bill and then turn to sneak away and I laid hold of him by the collar to wait till the lout who had accused him woke up."

"He sat up after a bit rubbing his jaw and started to turn ugly but I spoke to him man to man and said I'd make good for Rip if there'd been a mistake. He told me Rip had lost the money to him in a crap game Saturday and when he tried to change it he found the bill was counterfeit. I made Rip let me have a look at it and then laughed in the big lout's face and gave him a crisp new twenty from my wallet in exchange to show him what I thought of it. Here's the bit of paper the row started over."

He handed to Miles a limp, worn twenty-dollar bill, one end of which had a tinge of brown and the detective turned it thoughtfully over in his hand.

"I wonder how Rip got it? he remarked. "What did he tell you?"

"Nothing. Not a sensible word could I get out of him."

"We'll make him come clean when we get hold of him. If the bill is all right he needn't be afraid—" Miles checked himself suddenly. "But is it, Scottie? It's so old I wouldn't take an oath on it."

"Would, lad? There was a certain grimace in the other's tone. "You'll mind I told you I was the poorer by twenty dollars! I learned a trifle from the experts and that bill is as phony as the brightest gold brick that was ever sold!"

CHAPTER XIII

It was nearly lunch-time the next day when Miles glanced fell upon the door-plate of a room at the end of the hall: a room which had remained locked since his arrival and which he had once heard Carter refer to casually as "Mr. Roger's store-room." He polished that door-plate only Saturday morning, but now there seemed something odd about its appearance and the detective bent closer.

The brass about the keyhole was dulled save where a tiny, jagged scratch or two glistened and there were traces upon it of a congealed greasy substance at sight of which Miles drew a quick-involuntary breath.

"Well! Someone within the last two days had taken an impression of that keyhole, someone who was too careless or in too great haste to remove the evidence of the act. What could Roger have stored there which would be of such interest to anybody but himself?"

Luncheon was over when the detective heard the telephone ring again and with a muttered excuse he hastened toward the library, but the sound of Roger's voice in reply arrested him before he reached the threshold.

"Yes? . . . This is Roger Drake speaking. . . . What is that?" The receiver fell with a clatter to the desk but it was evident that Roger had retrieved it for in a moment his voice came again, shrill with something very like terror. "You must be mad! . . . My brother?" There was a long pause and then the one word: "Never!"

It ended in a strangling gasp, a chair creaked heavily and then a dry, muffled sob reached the listener's ears. He peered in cautiously between the curtains to behold the scientist sprawled limply in a chair, his arms outflung across the desk and his white head pillowed upon them while the thin shoulders shook spasmodically.

Carter's querulous summons from the dining room recalled Miles hurriedly. When next he entered the library he found it empty.

Dusk was settling down and nothing untoward had occurred to break the brooding stillness of the house when all at once a woman's shriek rang out. The detective rushed from his room and down the stairs but just as he reached the floor below another door was flung wide in his face and a man dashed out, almost colliding with him.

Miles halted for an instant, taken aback by sheer surprise for the opened door was that of Roger's store room and the man who had emerged was Andrew! He was with- out coat or waistcoat, his sleeves rolled down and his shirt and collar grimy with dust, a smudge of which lay across his cheek giving a grotesque twisted expression to his features.

"What's happened?" he roared. "Stop that yowling, Hitty, and stand aside!"

Miles became aware that a thin, ready-wail had succeeded the shriek and shaking off the spell which had held him transfixed he hastened down the hall.

At the head of the main staircase the maid was kneeling before a recumbent form wringing her hands and sobbing hysterically, but Andrew seized her arm and thrust her violently aside.

"Roger, old man!—Here, pull yourself together, Hitty and call Carter or William!"

So Andrew had not consciously noted that the momentary encounter! The detective stepped forward.

"What is it, sir? Oh, is Mr. Roger ill? Can I be of any assistance?"

"Yes. Help me carry him to his room and then get my sister. No need to call a doctor; he's had these attacks before and I know how to bring him around."

He placed his strong arms about the shoulders of the unconscious while Hitty ran ahead to open the man and Miles supported the knees and arms. Between them they got Roger into his room and upon the bed where he lay breathing stertorously.

Miles slipped out into the garden where he found Scottie at work among the rose bushes.

"What is it, lad?" The latter straightened. "Has something come off at last?"

"Something that has all but taken me off my feet, Scottie! It may be a waiting game for a few days more but there's daylight ahead—Got a pencil?" He pulled a notebook from his pocket and, tearing out a page, he scribbled hastily upon it while his colleague waited in silence.

"There! I don't care what excuses you make afterward but get down to the telegraph office at the station as fast as you can and send this wire off to the chief; tell him to send one of the boys down here with the reply the instant it comes, no matter at what hour of the day or night! We'll be ready then to stand out in the open and declare ourselves!"

Scottie read the message slowly and then lifted amazed eyes to the other's face.

"Man but we've been blind!" he exclaimed. "You say that there's daylight ahead? I'm thinking that for some in yonder house it may be a red and fearsome dawn."

After despatching Scottie to the village to transmit his wire, Miles reentered the house and ascended to the second floor. The door of Roger's store room did not yield when he turned the knob.

As he appeared down the hall Miss Drake appeared.

"We shall not need you, William," she announced. "My brother is subject to these heart attacks and he is quite alright now, but of course he will not come down to dinner."

An hour passed and Hobbart Drake returned from the city. Miles could scarcely restrain his impatience as he helped Carter to serve dinner, but the occasional glimpses he stole at the financier's face told him nothing. It was inscrutable and when the telephone rang he rose with calm deliberation.

"That was Zorn," he announced on his return. "He assured me that he was making definite progress."

His tone had lacked conviction, and Andrew glanced up with a snarl. "Sounds good but doesn't mean anything," he commented. "Isn't that what the police always give out to the newspapers when they're stumped?"

FRENCHY GIRLS OPEN CURLS TO LET EARS SHOW

Be Not Surprised if Your Eyes
Get a Glimpse of Female Ears

BY MARGARET ROHE
New York—Oh, look who's here! The female ear is all exposed to view from out its lair of ambush hair it has emerged anew. So long concealed when now revealed all naked, nude and bare, it seems to shrink from public gaze and from the rush of air like a captive taken from their cells, unused to the light of day, the just emancipated ears most likely feel that way and so, to temper their release, on being liberated, they're quickly hung with ball and chain of earrings heavily weighted.

'Twas Irene Castle brought the news of freedom to the ears. They turned them loose in Paris first. They'll soon be showing here. She wears hers flaunting in the breeze and prophesies this fall will be the era of the ears with ears worn out by all.

The National Hairdressers here with her do not agree and Mr. Miller, who's their head, says ears will covered be. He thinks at first the ears may creep from out their nest of hair, but that they'll soon shrink in again and keep within their lair. He also says bobbed hair is doomed while Irene says "Not so." Abroad, she says, as many bob as let their hair to grow.

But whether hair be long or bobbed, it must be peeled away to show the aural organs exposed to light of day if you would do as Paris says, which is the smartest way.

Short skirts revealed some tragedies—knock knees, bow legs and such—and now exposure of the ears sure promises as much. For though it's true that ears are ears, it's true too, some are tin and some are fan and some are bat and some are just a sin.

But be they large or be they small or be they good or bad, your best ear foremost you must put. It is the latest fad "Lend me your ears," was asked of folks one ancient Roman day. What Paris now bids done with ears is quite a give away.

When skirts were short and legs were long then ears were covered quite. But now that skirts are coming down and legs out of sight, it sort of seems to balance things and make proportions right that ears should be unveiled and pushed out in to the light.

But ears so long have coddled been, like mushrooms under glass it's horrible to contemplate what's bound to come to pass when first the frosts of winter come to give a fiendish nip to each exposed defenseless ear, uncovered lobe to tip.

There seems to be one alternative—to boom the earmuff trade. 'Twas best to order earmuffs now to match your tailormade. With earmuffs on each dainty ear goloshes on her feet, the 1923 girl will sure look mighty sweet. And be they muffed or all exposed, uncovered to the light, these newly discovered female ears will be an eerie sight.

MUST BE HAPPY TO HAVE BRIGHT EYES

BY DORIS KENYON
Famed for Her Beautiful Eyes
Eyes always talk, but what they say depends on the mind and character of the individual.

Raised to their highest beauty, they become the most compelling feature of the face. Nothing gives them such a beauty as a vital interest in life, and nothing so deadens them as self interest.

The greatest beautifiers of the eye are the agencies which promote the best state of health—plenty of sleep, regular habits and hygienic living. The reckless abuse of eyes in youth is so universal it is no wonder we are a spectacled nation.

Much of the expression of the eye depends on the lashes and brows and these are most responsive to regular care. It is strange more women do not cultivate these instead of resorting to pencil or stain which is always noticeable and gives to the face a hard look.

Brows and lashes should be brushed nightly with an eyebrow brush and if they are thin a little vaseline or olive oil should be rubbed in, using great care none gets into contact with the pupil. Anointing the brows with glycerin or alcohol will give them a pleasing luster.

One of the things stage women learn is to exercise the eyes daily to promote mobility and expressive ness. Turn them in every direction, far and near, up and down and side wise.

Oculists tell me the oftener the eyes can be directed to some distant object, to faraway hills or vast areas, the better for this rests the eye. Some go so far as to recommend decorating the home with pictures that give a distant perspective.

To use the eyes steadily in artificial or flickering light or in strong sunlight is a decided strain. So is reading in bed, no matter how much you enjoy it.

Rubbing the eyes on waking up in the morning or when sleepy is injurious as all pressure and harsh movement tends to flitter the eye ball and hasten the time when glasses will be necessary.

Tired eyes are revived by bathing them in a weak salt-water solution or one of boric acid.

Have your home decorated with soft, restful colors and see that your lights are properly shaded.

DORIS KENYON

Guard against anger, worry and fretting, as these traits are soon reflected in the eyes. And remember that joy and happiness give a sparkle and brightness no other agencies can impart.

HORSES GIVEN TO PRINCESS MARIE

Bucharest, Rumania—Members of the local Jockey Club recently assembled six splendid horses and asked Princess Marie, now Queen of Serbia, to select one as a wedding present. With the Princess came her mother, Queen Marie of Rumania, and Ilena, the younger daughter.

After seeing the horses, Princess Marie was unable to choose between two. "Well let us present you the span," gallantly offered the members, and the offer was accepted.

Then, it was remembered that the day was the birthday of Princess Ilena and she was offered a horse, which she selected and accepted. Finally it seemed ungrateful not to offer a horse to the Queen, who is a splendid horsewoman, and this offer she accepted. Had the King been present doubtless he would have been offered the two remaining horses.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

Today's word is RECALCITRANT. It's pronounced rek-ah-sit-rant, with accent on the second syllable.

It means—kicking back, kicking against anything, rejecting vehemently, obstinately noncompliant, showing repugnance or opposition, refractory.

It comes from a combination of the Latin prefix "re" signifying, among other things, back or backward and the Latin word "calcare" to kick, hence, to kick back.

It's used like this—"The recalcitrant trans on both sides, have blocked all plans thus far looking toward settlement of the rail and mine strikes."

YOUR JOB

With jobs as with fashions and many other things in life "if winter comes can spring be far behind." The time to buy stocks is in a depression when other people are selling them. So with vocations. The time to enter them is when other workers are leaving the field. When workers leave a vocation in large numbers it begins to offer the advantages of a pioneer field. It is easier for a beginner to find an opening and get a start. The minimum qualifications are apt to be accepted in an applicant working conditions are sure to improve wages are usually increased provision made for training beginners, and the opportunities for advancement are good.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You remember that while a guest is privileged to leave a dinner party any time after the dinner is concluded it is neither fat nor graceful to the hostess to see a guest to hurry away to another engagement immediately after the dinner has been served.

When a dinner begins at seven on the guest usually leaves at ten although the hour may be much later, depending on the entertainment provided afterward.

Whom Shall Mollie Marry?

Chapter 21 — Pistol Mightier Than Sword

The four stood as though carved of marble—Don theatrically impressive his hand significantly in his pocket, his manner still and masterful. Ben Wheeler in momentary check, held by a sensible fear of the thing in Don's pocket and the madness in Don's mind Mollie terrified; Billy alert for a spring.

"Now you're sensible Wheeler," Don nodded calmly. "If you keep still you'll get only a good talking to. If you move—and spoil my speech—I'll let fly."

An animal growl rose in Wheeler's throat. His chest and shoulders swelled with gathering attack. Mollie seized his arm, held it tight.

"Don't move, Ben," she entreated. "And Don, oh, my dear, won't you stop this childishness—"

"Wheeler! Listen closely!" Don began. "I like dogs so I won't insult them by calling you one. Only a beast of the lowest type fights as you do. To win you didn't hesitate to crush poor foolish Lella or me. Now you're crushing Billy there—"

"I'll take care of that, Don," broke in Billy, hoping to divert him. "You think because you make butcher knives you're a strong man."

Don went on. "Why, your only strength is your pocket—and just now that isn't as good as what I've got in mine."

"Mollie!" snapped Wheeler, "let go of me or I'll have to—"

"Yes let go of him, Mollie," smiled Don mockingly. "He realizes how vile he is and wants to die. It's the one decent feeling—"

Wheeler's free hand closed over Don's.

Mollie's wrist and tore her hold from his arm.

"Now, you worm!" He made a pantherish move toward Don.

A cry broke from Mollie and Billy. Barton Don neither moved nor spoke, but his intention was clearer than shouting. He was waiting till Ben was almost on him before pulling the trigger——as fearless as only madness can make one, eager to be moved to shoot.

Even Wheeler stopped. To pull a trigger on one's self when there is all the reason in the world to want to live—

"Ah, a little cooler in your ardor!" Don mocked. "Waving a check book isn't always effective, eh, Wheeler? Even a successful hardware merchant isn't proof against lead bullets, eh?"

"Oh, Don—oh, Don, for my sake," pleaded Mollie stop!" He disregarded her. The blood slowly rose in Wheeler's face. Clearly his temper was coming to a pitch as great as Don's madness. Billy watching like a hawk, thinking swiftly stepped up to Don, getting between him and Wheeler.

"Look here, Don you talk to me! I'm not going to let you shoot Wheeler and get hanged for it. Not that I give a damn what happens to either of you. But I won't have Mollie driven mad blaming herself over the affair. Give me that gun!"

His hand shot out just as Ben Wheeler, from behind, leaped also up on Don.

Adventures Of The Twins

Olive Roberts Barton

A New Adventure
The Fairy Queen wrote a letter of introduction for the Twins to give to Mr. Peabody when they got to the moon. When it was finished, she handed it to Nick who put it away carefully in his pocket.

"Do you want company?" asked the Magical Mushroom. "I'd sort of like to go along for I haven't seen my old friend Peabody for years 'n' years."

"Oh, yes, do come," cried Nancy. "We'd love to have you. Can you wish yourself so far?"

"I don't know whether my magic will hold out for that distance or not," answered the Mushroom, "but what's the matter with each of you taking one of my arms (the Mushroom had arms you know, my dears, —legs too) and when you wish yourselves up to the moon, I'll go too."

"But can you get down?" asked Nick.

"Ha, ha, ha! That's a fine joke, isn't it?" laughed the Mushroom, turning to the Fairy Queen and all the other fairies who were gathered around to see the Twins off on their new adventure. "That's a fine joke—to ask a person with a hat like an open umbrella, if he can get down from the moon. Yes, my dear, I can sail down as easily as a parachute jumper can jump out of a balloon."

at the circus. Don't worry. I'll be safe enough."

Nick started to be offended when the Mushroom laughed, but another thought popped into his head just then and crowded out the feeling. He looked up at the sky, squinting his eyes in every direction. "There isn't any moon now," he declared. "We'll have to wait until tonight to start."

"The Fairy Queen shook her head. "Oh, no you won't, Nick," she said. "There's always a moon, only you can't see it, anymore than you can see a trolley car after it turns the corner. It's right now on the other side of the world and that's where the moon is. Mr. Peabody never gets a rest on that account. He's like Mr. Sprinkle-blow, the weatherman. Somebody to please ALL the time."

AMERICA SHOWS BRITISHERS HOW TO MARKET MILK

Chairman of English Farmers' Union Comes to U. S. For Advice

London—England is about to benefit from what has been done in the United States in the field of producing and distributing pure milk. Ready to learn from the experience of others, the milk committee of the National Farmer's Union sent its chairman, E. W. Langford, to America to investigate. He found out a lot.

What chiefly impressed him was the tremendous extent to which the public generally was interested in the subject of pure milk. It was regarded as a national question. Child welfare organizations, public health and educational authorities made it their business to see to it that everything possible was done to ensure an abundant supply. No influence comparable with it was exercised in England.

"In America," Mr. Langford has said, "there is much more inspection of farms than here. Producers have to be licensed, and the license can be revoked if the regulations are not complied with. Altogether milk production and distribution are on a higher plane than in this country. The question of clean, pure milk is treated by all concerned as one of vital importance."

"One of the chief difficulties in the way of securing better milk in this country is in my opinion the indifference of the public," says Mr. Langford. "British people do not take a serious view of the milk they buy. 'Milk is milk' sums up their attitude and they do not seem to care how or where it is produced. Very often indeed those who are interested in buying milk here for public institutions such as hospitals buy on contract in the very cheapest market, irrespective of quality or cleanliness. It is all a question of education. If the people here see the necessity of having clean milk in bottle and are prepared to pay the small increase in price they can have it."

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kuetner and daughter Rosemary have returned to their home at Shuon after visiting for several days with Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Whitefoot, 948 North Division st.

Miss Dea Kuetner left Monday for her home in Milwaukee after spending several days with relatives here.

TESTED RECIPE

A LUNCHEON DISH
By Bertha E. Shapleigh

Eggs combined with a vegetable often makes a very good and much more satisfying dish than eggs or vegetable alone.

The following recipe calls for potatoes, but egg plant or peppers are good served in the same way.

Allow one tomato and one egg to a person. This recipe is sufficient for six servings.

6 tomatoes
6 eggs
1/2 cup milk
8 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
6 pieces bacon

Wash, wipe and cut tomatoes in halves. Roll each half in salted flour mixed with a teaspoon of sugar. Fry the bacon until crisp. Remove pieces and keep hot.

In the bacon fat remaining in pan cook the tomatoes until soft and nicely browned.

Mix the eggs, milk and seasonings. Melt the butter in a sauce pan and in it scramble the eggs. Remove from the fire when still quite soft as they will cook sufficiently hard after being placed on tomatoes.

On a platter place the pieces of tomato, pour over them the scrambled eggs and garnish with the crisp pieces of bacon. Serve at once.

(Cut this out and paste it in your cook book.)

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

Modern ideas regarding the rights of women have never penetrated certain parts of New Guinea. There the women do all the heavy work and wait upon their husbands with abject servility.

An English writer claims many of the inhabitants are cannibals and frequently when they tire of their wives they kill them at will and eat them with relish.

The Interlake baseball team was successful in shaking the old jinx from its trail long enough Sunday afternoon to defeat the Dale team by the decisive score of 12 to 1. Sternagel pitched a wonderful game and the team backed him up with stone wall support. The entire team showed up in excellent form and this might be taken of some indication of what can be expected of the Pulpmakers in the future games of the season.

A home run by Kirk, Interlake first baseman, was the hitting feature of the contest. Kirk was the second man at bat and the first ball pitched to him was walloped over the right field fence.

O'Hanlon connected for 4 hits out of five in the bat. Bates was high on runs bringing in three. Every man but one on the Interlake team brought in a run.

The Pulpmakers gathered a total of 15 hits to 6 by their opponents. After the second inning not a Dale batter succeeded in getting beyond second base.

BIG CROWD SEES WHITE SOX TRIM NEW YORK YANKS

Wild Throw by Dugan Starts Sox On Winning Rally—Final Count is 6-5

Chicago—Close to 40,000 persons saw the Chicago White Sox defeat the New York Yankees on Sunday, 6 to 5. The locals won the game by punching their hits with a smart play by Ray Schalk, when the defense of the visitors cracked.

Chicago scored four runs in the fourth. After one out, Falk singled and Sheely went to second when Dugan threw wild to first. Falk going to third. Schalk then struck at a wild pitch for his third strike and reached first, while Falk scored. Blankenship followed with a single to left sending Sheely home and went to second when Ruth fumbled. Johnson advanced Blankenship with a sacrifice and Mulhearn sent him home with a hit.

Ted Blankenship pitched a steady game until the seventh when he weakened and was replaced by Leverette in the eighth who checked the rush of the Yankees. Score: New York .010000220—3 7 10 Chicago .110040100—6 12 0 Batteries: Hoyt, Murray and Schalk; Blankenship, Leverette and Schalk.

INDIANS LOSE TO APPLETON TEAM

Appleton's Valley league baseball team defeated the Neopit Indian team at Brandt park Sunday afternoon by the score of 10 to 1.

Art Wheeler, Appleton's new utility man and pitcher, did the mound work for most of the game and executed his duties in fine shape. Turner, a Chicago hurler, finished the game for the Valley team but could not produce the goods that Wheeler was able to deliver to the Indian batters.

Zelenski, Appleton's new third sacker, showed fine form and did some very good stick work.

TRAILING THE TEAMS

The pennant chasing St. Louis Browns, without the services of George Sider and Hank Severid, but with able hurling by Wright and Kenneth Williams' twenty-fifth home run, have moved into first place again. Their fellow citizens, the Cardinals, lost a game from Robinson's Dodgers and gained a length on the Giants, who dropped their second straight contest to the Pittsburghers.

The upward movement of the Browns was due to the defeat of the Yankees by the White Sox, 6 to 5, as well as their own 4 to 1 victory over the Duncans R-d Sox. Waite Hoyt, the Yankees' 1921 star was ineffective in six innings against the Chicagoans who found his delivery for 12 hits.

Ty Cobb had another good day at bat and so did his men, defeating the Athletics 7 to 2. Cleveland, won from Washington 11 to 2.

Pittsburgh home runs again proved the undoing of the Giants. Max Carey, who drove for the circuit on two occasions Saturday duplicated his feat and Russell, another Saturday home-runner, added another to his string.

In Brooklyn, the Cardinals took advantage of a couple of infield bobbles to win 3 to 2. The victory cost Brooklyn its hold on fifth place as the Pirates moved there.

Fifth flight: Miss Libby, Oshkosh, defeated Miss Ulrich, Appleton; Mrs. R. O. Smith, Green Bay, defeated Miss D. Kerwin, Appleton.

Miss Kellogg of Green Bay, won the hole handicap match against Mrs. and Mrs. Stone of Green Lake, won the driving contest, Mrs. Rich of Green Bay, placing second in that event.

Fourth flight: Mrs. Festula, Sheboygan, defeated Mrs. Harmon, Sheboygan; Mrs. Wick, Sheboygan, defeated Mrs. Morgan Davies, Oshkosh.

Fifth flight: Miss Libby, Oshkosh, defeated Miss Ulrich, Appleton; Mrs. R. O. Smith, Green Bay, defeated Miss D. Kerwin, Appleton.

Miss Kellogg of Green Bay, won the hole handicap match against Mrs. and Mrs. Stone of Green Lake, won the driving contest, Mrs. Rich of Green Bay, placing second in that event.

KIMBERLY BEATS HORTONVILLE BY SCORE OF 15 TO 1

Pocan Plays Stellar Game With Three Runs and Three Base Hit

Kimberly's County league team made good its boast that it could trim the Hortonville aggregation with the mighty Rammel on the mound when Hortonville was defeated by the decisive count of 15 to 1 at Hortonville Sunday afternoon.

In the second inning of the contest Dabreiner, Hortonville's third baseman, wrenched his knee when a base-runner slid into him making it necessary for the third sacker to retire from the game. He might not be able to be in the game next Sunday and his loss will handicap the Hortonville team a great deal.

Every one of the Kimberly men was credited with a run, four of them made two tallies and pitcher Pocan came in with three. It was a walk-away for the Kimberly outfit and the outcome of the battle was never in doubt.

Rammel was touched for 17 safe bingles while Pocan was hit for 6 bingles. Three errors were chalked up against Kimberly while the Hortonville men committed eight.

W. Diestler, Klingler and Lash of Hortonville, connected for two-base hits. Lamars, Loose, Ryan and Foster of Kimberly also rapped out doubles and Pocan came across with a three bagger.

SUNDAY'S GAMES
Oshkosh 10, Kaukauna 0.
Fond du Lac 2, Menasha 1 (10 innings).

Oshkosh—The Oshkosh Indians closed in on Sheboygan Sunday afternoon when they defeated Kaukauna in a lop sides game by a score of 10 to 0. Heavy hitting by Oshkosh and erratic fielding by Kaukauna made the victory an easy one for the Indians. Rose of the Milwaukee Brewers, who did the heaving for Oshkosh, pitched pretty ball allowing but four scattered hits, hitting one Kaukauna batter and fanning eight. Oshkosh, on the other hand, got to Diederich for twelve hits, two of which were doubles, one a triple and another home run. Diederich fanned but one man and walked six.

Kaukauna really had but one chance to score and that was in the third inning when a hit and two errors filled the bases with one man down only to have the next two men retired in order. Both teams entered protests. Oshkosh protested against a decision made by Umpire Dux in the third inning when with a man on first and another on second, Boettge attempted to hunt and popped up a weak fly over Diederich's head which no one heeded. Umpire Dux called Boettge out on a technical infield fly. Kaukauna protested the game because Oshkosh pitched Rose who belongs to Milwaukee.

Oshkosh got a man as far as third in the first but did not score until the second inning. In that session, Stevenson, first man up, clouted out a triple and scored on Miller's single. Millerage was caught at third and the next two men were retired. In the third Oshkosh scored another run. Rose walked, Wittig grounded to the second baseman who threw the ball to the shortstop. The shortstop took his foot from the bag, however, and both men were called safe. Boettge then attempted to hunt and knocked a weak popup over Diederich's head. Diederich threw wild to first and Rose scored. Boettge was called at third and Poehlman flew out to leftfield, retiring the side with the score 2 to 0.

Kaukauna had a chance to score in the third but failed. Davey fouled out to Millerage. Diederich singled and Smith was safe on an error by Wittig. Brautigan grounded to Poehlman who bobbled the ball filling the bases. Flanagan fanned out, however, and Eichrodt flew out to left, retiring the side. Although Kaukauna got a man on in the fourth, eighth and ninth, that was practically the only chance they had to score.

The Indians pounded five more runs in the fifth. Wittig led off with a double. Boettge sacrificed him to third and he scored on Bodus's double to left. Bodus was caught at third by a throw by the pitcher, Poehlman singled and Stevenson walked. Stevenson went down to second and drew the peg, Poehlman going home on the play. "Rock" Lamars bobbled the ball and both men were safe. Millerage scored Stevenson with a single and Steen added two more runs to the total piling out a home run. Runke was out, shortstop to first.

Oshkosh scored three more runs in the eighth. Millerage singled and scored when Steen hit safely to centerfield. The centerfielder bobbled the ball as he bounced along the ground. Steen going to third. Runke was out pitcher to first and Steen scored on Wittig's single. Boettge was safe and Wittig was out on a fielder's choice. Rose scoring. Bodus flew out retiring the side.

BLACK CREEK WINS FROM FREEDOM IN TIGHT GAME, 3-1

Only One Error is Made in Entire Contest—Bramon Works in Good Shape

In a game played so well that only one error was made, the Black Creek County league team defeated the Freedom aggregation by the count of 3 to 1.

The contest was tight throughout and was scoreless until the fifth inning when Freedom registered its single tally. Gehr, first to bat for Freedom in this frame, got a hit which put him on first. Diesen followed with a walk and Sanderfoot filled the bases when he singled.

This was the chance for Nelson but Lady Luck was against him. His short infield crack was well handled by the fielders and two of the base runners were returned. Gunther then walloped to rightfield and sent Sanderfoot home.

Black Creek's three scores were made in the eighth inning. The counts came in a bunch and it all happened in short order. Servatius was first up in the eighth and he started things by beating out a bunt to first. Perry sacrificed him to second and he scored on a two bagger by Brunwald. Huhn then got a hit which scored Brunwald and Lane did the same for Huhn which made the third and last tally of the game.

The Freedom team was successful in getting only three hits off Bramon while the Creek batters copped fourteen from Nelson.

7 PERSONS IN CAR THROWN INTO DITCH

Driver of Oakland Crashes Into Ford While Latter is Standing Still

Seven passengers occupying a Ford touring car were thrown down a 15-foot embankment at a culvert a short distance north of Black Creek Sunday by an unidentified driver of an Oakland car who ran into them while they were waiting for him to cross the narrow structure.

The Ford rolled over twice before it reached the bottom. E. J. Belling of Appleton Roofing and Hardware Co. reached the scene as the passengers were making their way up the embankment. All escaped injury with the exception of one lady who suffered a slight cut on her face.

The occupants of the car were from Green Bay, but Mr. Belling was unable to get their names because of the crowd, 25 autos lining up within a few minutes. Their auto was badly wrecked. The party consisted of three women and four men. The Oakland car was only slightly damaged.

BARN NEAR FREEDOM IS DESTROYED BY STORM

Herman Hooyman suffered a heavy loss at his farm near Freedom when his large barn was wrecked when blown over by the wind. None of his cattle or horses was in the structure at the time, but he had 50 tons of hay stored within. The building was swept off its foundation. A wagon shed at the Joseph Romanesko farm in the same locality also was laid flat during the high wind and a large number of trees were uprooted.

STORM SCATTERS CROWD AT OUTDOOR SERVICES

There was a liberal attendance at the opening of the union outdoor church service on Lawrence college campus Sunday evening, but the gathering was dismissed when the rain and windstorm came up. Only part of the devotional exercises had been conducted and the sermon by Dr. J. A. Holmes was dispensed with.

GUARDSMEN COME UNDER COMPENSATION LAWS

By Associated Press
Madison—Members of the Wisconsin National Guard are included in state compensation laws and are entitled to benefits in case of injury or disability. Judge E. Ray Stevens, held in a decision filed Monday in circuit court.

The ruling was made in a test suit brought by Attorney General Morgan, against Hubert Erickson, age 20, Madison, sergeant in the headquarters troop here, and the industrial commission which awarded him compensation for injuries received when he was kicked by a horse while on duty in September 1921.

Similar awards have been made by the industrial commission it was said, but the suit was brought to definitely determine the standing of the guardsmen under the statute regulating compensation.

WHAT IS LOVE?

SEE THE GREAT DREAM OF THE AGES

Christopher Columbus, believing the earth was round, had the dream of discovering a westward passage to India.

Overcoming tremendous obstacles at every point, he discovered the continent on which is now established the greatest nation of the earth.

The dream of the westward way to India was not realized, though, until the American Government finished the Panama Canal. The canal is far and away the greatest engineering feat ever accomplished in all history.

Not one American in a hundred will ever have the opportunity of seeing the Canal itself. But anyone can—entirely without cost—get a colored map giving a perfect idea of the Big Ditch. Merely clip out and mail the coupon below. Enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. Be sure the name and address can be easily read.

Frederic J. Haskin, Director, The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

I enclose herewith two cents in stamps for return postage on a free copy of the Panama Map.

RAILROAD STRIKE MAY SLOW UP ROAD WORK IN COUNTY

Unable to Obtain Cement to Complete Projects Now Under Discussion

The railroad strike and the priority of coal shipments will have some effect upon the road construction in Outagamie co., it is feared by A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner. He was in telephonic communication with an engineer of the state highway commission Monday morning and was informed that cement shipments would not be made for the present at the former rate.

Cement for county road projects was being received at the rate of one carload a day. About 5,000 barrels now are on hand for the Seymour north project, but this is still 1,000 barrels short of what is required. Pouring of concrete was begun last week. About 2,200 feet of the two mile project thus far has been covered.

Grading and building of culverts was started on the Greenville-Stephensville project last week. Only 1,500 barrels of the total 6,000 that will be necessary are on hand. The policy of the state highway commission probably will be to first secure the cement for those projects that are already under construction.

Joseph A. Mathie of Oshkosh, was a business visitor in Oshkosh Saturday.
